Justice Bischoff Issues Order That Keeps Police Officers Practically Id'e

Justice Bischoff, in the Supreme Court, this afternoon signed an order restraining the police from interfering with the patrons of the Coney Island Jockey Club at Sheepshead Bay.

It is practically a temporary injunction and will do away with the custom recently indulged in at the track by Commissioner Bingham's men of shoving and pushing men about when two or three would congregate on the lawn or in the betting ring.

The order, in which there is no mention of betting, will bring to an end the "Keep moving" rule which has made race-going for the past
